

Volume 1 | Issue 1 | The Conservative Voice

Announcement

First Tuesday Conservatives is being formed to help channel the actions and voices of those who want to help fight what we see as a growing anti-American sentiment that infects our White House, city council, county commission and state legislative committees.

The primary mission of this organization will be to foster the identification, coordination, and engagement of area conservatives for the purpose of influencing government and media institutions to help them become more cognizant of and responsive to conservative beliefs, philosophies and demands.

Visit us at FirstTuesCons.com/

Inside This Issue

PG. 2

Much ado about something.

PG. 3

What about next steps?

Much to Do

Our heads are spinning over the amount of work that we need to do:

- Get the word out.
- Engage "helpers".
- Finalize website.
- Recruit board members.
- Prepare bylaws.
- Create a business plan.
- File for EIN.
- Prepare and file orders of incorporation.
- File for tax-exempt status.
- Apply for start-up fund grants.
- Open bank account.
- Recruit a CEO.
- Recruit a steering committee.
- Open PO Box.
- Begin collecting actionable intelligence.
- Begin communicating on threats to conservativism and provide suggestions for being heard.

"It takes a village..."

Getting the Word Out

This newsletter is our first formal attempt to communicate about this project since we started thinking about how we could make a difference. For whatever reason...we believe that you may be interested in this new organization - either as a consumer or as another pair of hands who could help us become operational.

As a former first lady and subsequent presidential candidate who had the election stolen from her (poor thing!) once said, "it takes a village." We need your help to encourage our community to stop licking their wounds and to join with fellow conservatives as we march peacefully and patriotically to have our voices heard.

First Things First

This is an opportunity to work with like-minded individuals to build something meaningful. Are you ready to apply your talents and skills to improve our community, our state, and our country?

Get in on the ground floor as First Tuesday begins to take shape. Help guide us toward realistic, achievable, and effective strategies. Help us to stay focused by becoming a founding member or a mentor and consultant.

Please know that we are not seeking financial support from you at this point. At this stage, we are only seeking your thoughts on whether and how we can work together to create this organization and move it toward an operational status (Phase II).

Second Things Second

We are hoping to receive some engagement from you in response to this newsletter.

Hopefully, we have raised you interest level to a point at which you have begun to think about what we could do together – what we could do to make a difference!

Email me: JimCowmia@FirstTuesCons.com

Say, "Hello"; and then let us E-dialog a bit about the organization and how you would like to participate. This can be a very non-threatening and anonymous way for you to dip your toe in the water.

Maybe you are anxious to help and already interested to have some in-person discussion. Email me, so that we can plan to speak by telephone or to meet for coffee.

The purpose of this initial newsletter is to introduce you to First Tuesday and attempt to recruit some help in getting this effort started.

Browse around our website. You will quickly see that we could use a hand getting it up to speed. Maybe you have some experience with web design or with working on WordPress? Maybe you could help create content for the site based on team planning sessions?

For now, we are using the webspace to collect and consolidate our thoughts and plans. However, we consider that a web site could serve as a centerpiece for operations – without any dependency on social media platforms that seem to enjoy de-platforming our voices.

Let us hear from you! We would like to pull together a meeting of interested individuals for an in-person brainstorming and planning session on the First Tuesday in March (3/2/2021).